GOVERNMENT 'PHONE GANG START

A gang of government telephone employees arrived in town this (Friday) morning, and commenced operations on the Tofield-Calgary trunk line, building between Mirror and Alia. The line north between Mirror and Bashaw is now under construction and the connection will be made here.

MIXED TRAIN RUNS TO END OF STEEL

The Grand Trunk Pacific are running a mixed train over their line south of here, the service ending at Beiseker. The train leaves Mirror at 7 a. m. on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, arriving at Beiseker at 8 p. m. On the return the train leaves that point at 7 a. m., arriving in Mirror on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

NOMINATION B. OF T. OFFICERS

All the members of the Mirror Board of Trade are urgently requested to attend a meeting on Tuesday evening, Dec. 3rd, when nomination officers for the year 1913 will take place. Election will take place two weeks from that date.

DISTRIBUTION OF SEED GRAIN

By instructions of the Hon. Minister of Agriculture a distribution of superior sorts of grain and potatoes will be made during the coming winter and spring to Canadian farmers. The samples for general distribution will consist of spring wheat

(5 lbs), white oats (4 lbs), barley (5 lbs), and field peas (5 lbs). These will be sent out from Ottawa. A distribution of potatoes (in 3 lbs samples) will be carried on from several of the experimental farms, the Central Farm at Ottawa supplying only the provinces of Ontario and Quebec. All samples will be free, by mail.

Applicants must give particulars, regard to the soil on their farms, and some account of their experience with such kinds of grain (or potatoes) as they grow, so that a promising sort for their condition may be selected.

Each application must be separate and must be signed by the applicant. Only one sample of grain and one of potatoes can be sent to each farm. Applications on any kind of printed form cannot be accepted. If two or more samples are asked for in the same letter only one will be sent.

As the supply of seed is limited, farmers are advised to apply early but the application will not necessarily be filed in exact order in which they are received. Applications received after the end of January will probably be too late.

All applications for grain (and applications from the provinces of Ontario and Quebec for potatoes) should be addressed to the Dominion Cerealists, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa. Such applications require no postage. If otherwise addressed delay and disappointment may occur.

Applications for potatoes, from farmers in any other province should be addressed (postage prepaid) to the Superintendent of the nearest Branch Experimental Farm in that province.

MIRROR'S NATURAL RESOURCES PROVE UNSURPASSABLE

Company Will Be Formed To Exploit Deposits of Brick Clay. --- Samples Analyzed Declared To Be the Best Ever

That Mirror will eventually become the centre of an extensive brick manufacturing industry, is becoming more apparent every day. Samples of different kinds of clay and other natural products have from time to time been forwarded to experts to be analysed and tested, and in every case the result has been far better than anticipated.

In one case, the sample of clay proved of such a high grade, that the party interested is now making arrangements for brick-making machinery and other necessary adjuncts. We are not at liberty to publish complete details of this transaction, as the promoters are desirous of having everything complete before making a definite announcement. However, plans are being formulated for the founding of a company to manufacture brick from clay deposits near here. Several of our citizens have already signified their intention of subscribing to the company.

A sample of sand from Mirror was forwarded to Arnprior, Ont., and under the McPhee Process, a high grade pressed brick was made. This sample is now on exhibition, and according to local experts is one of the best bricks on the market. The brick can be made up in red, white, buff and purple, and according to the manufacturer will outstand any clay brick made. It is also suitable for making composite stone for window sills, door steps, panels, window arches and all such articles. The brick can be turned out ready for the market in nine and one-half hours.

The materials in the above mentioned cases are of entirely different qualities and as the supply is practically inexhaustible, the industries when established should prove a great success. The supply of a high-grade brick is not nearly equal to the demand, and the promoters of brick-making plants in Mirror will have more than they can attend to right from the start.

J. K. King a fireman on the G.T.P., had his right hand badly burned at the round house last week. While searching for engine oil with a torch, he lifted a tub containing gasoline, the liquid immediately flared up and burning his hand. The injury is not serious but necessitates a lay off.

GOVERNMENT UNDER NEW ACT

Two hundred and twenty seven local improvement districts, comprising the settled areas of Alberta, wound up their affairs on Nov. 15, when the Rural Municipalities Act, passed by the last legislature, became operative. The change involves a complete revision of the map of Alberta in the government of the farming communities.

Fifty-six rural municipalities have been organized in Alberta under the Rural Municipalities Act. In addition there will be 110 districts with the limited powers previously granted to small communities. Nomination for councillors of the rural municipalities will be made on December 2, the election taking place a week later. Nominations and elections will take place in January in the districts where the residents have not taken advantage of the act.

That some man of whom Eva had been heard had been caught by the quiet, rather mysterious beauty of the other, did seem to him indeed quite possible, though the thought gave him rather an unpleasant tingling, but that she had willingly taken her sister's lover from her the Major refused to believe.

He recalled the fair girl's rather repellent, petulant prettiness, the wild look in her fiery eyes, the queer smile, the smile and could easily realize her doing anything other than or even desperate under the influence of some momentary pique or disappointment.

That note might cause endless trouble, he thought, it might even close her for life. What possible good can it do to hand it over now? True, it is a responsibility for me to take, but good heavens, I am used to taking responsibilities. And if anything should turn up in the future to make it advisable?

It will I must take my chance of a thing, that's all. It won't be the first two I do.

And, crumpling the note back again into his pocket, the Major turned towards his fate.

CHAPTER V

Eaton found his man-servant sitting up to him, according to his custom, on his return to the house. This individual, named Duck, a typical Jack Tar of about thirty, with a red face, brown, alert, with humorous eyes, had joined the Major some years before and had followed him in his exploring expeditions. He was entirely devoted to his master, for whom he had a great admiration, and save for one or two trifling failings—a fondness for the female sex, and a habit of breaking things, natural to men who have only had strange rooms to deal with—made Eaton an excellent servant. He was a clever and willing, never apparently requiring any prolonged instruction, and always willing to tumble up, as he called it, at any hour of the day or night.

Tumbling up from the hearth or somewhere on Eaton's entrance, he greeted him cheerfully and proceeded to help him off with his hat and coat. He, prepared to see his master's affairs, showed away in bed, according to his custom, before himself settling in his couch. But the Major was inclined to a diagnosis with his service on this occasion.

"Not going to bed just yet, Duck, is it? I don't sleep. I'll have a cigar and a whiskey. You turn in."

"Ay, sir, as fast as his relation, as it is the most natural thing in the world that his master should not feel weary at that hour and proceeding to prepare the whiskey and cigar. Call you same time in the morning, sir."

Eaton nodded. Yes, and clear out now, he said, as there comes some pretty stuff drink and selecting a cigar he threw himself into an armchair. It was true he had not slept deeply. The events of the evening had affected him considerably, making his mind active, his thoughts confused. The death of his mother, the loss of so full of life and prettiness, the strange circumstances in which he had discovered her, and the thought of her father whose heart had been broken, and his grief and illness, had coupled him more and more would care to acknowledge.

And then, too, there came the question as to what it was right for him to do.

SCOTT, HILL AND CO. 22 Canada Life Building, Winnipeg, Man.

He remembered the note which the poor girl had left, that little letter which lay in his pocket. He called her sister's name, beautiful face, and he could not blame himself for grief-stricken rush past him, but he could not blame himself for not having given it up, that he could not bind himself to the fact that, true or not, it contained a direct accusation and must enlighten the authorities considerably as to the meaning of the shocking affair. It may be accidental death now at the inquest, he thought. It would be suicide if I gave that up, and suicide that would cost him when perhaps he had not even thought of it.

And then his thoughts flew back to the scene with the taxi-cab and the angry man in Grosvenor Square. The poor girl had had a quarrel with this man. He had bullied her, frightened her, perhaps, and it was that possibly which had led her to commit the rash act that resulted in her death. A wonder who the brute was, he thought. And then suddenly he remembered the name of the brute was, whether it was indeed Quid. Hiverson. The gambling house, or someone else entirely, he had at least tangible evidence of his identity on Eaton's sleeve, and the Major looked at the marks though he did not know the name of the man who had been with him. It was not the name of the man who had been with him, it was not the name of the man who had been with him, it was not the name of the man who had been with him.

He took a few steps up and down the room, wondering if it was true that the toe, was taken with him, and he was not a man who was returning to Violet Brooke. The note about the picture of his mother, did not look the kind of girl to be caught by a brutal girl like that man. But after all, what do I know of women? A Memory Device

The first mechanical apparatus intended to prevent the busy man from forgetting his engagements has been devised by a New York inventor, and is the subject of the September Popular Mechanics Magazine.

This new memory device is operated by a large spring released at predetermined times, and is capable of remembering a series for the month of the year, another for the days of the month, and the third for each quarter of an hour of the day.

It has the appearance of a desk-clock with a series of glass plates, and is so constructed that it automatically gives a series of reminders to be remembered of something to do in the future, makes a memorandum of it on a card and drops it into the case in the pigeon-hole set aside for that purpose.

No matter whether the engagement is a year or a month, or even fifteen minutes, a bell rings when that particular date comes and a card automatically drops down before him.

NEW C.P.R. STEAMSHIPS
In speaking of the two new steamships of the Canadian Pacific Railway, the "Empress of Asia," which the Canadian Pacific Railway is building for service on the Pacific Ocean between Canada and the Orient, a C.P.R. official said that the new ships were justified in saying that the two new ships would be the safest.

"In preparing the plans for the new 'Empresses,' he remarked, 'we took particular care to make provision for all conceivable emergencies. The boats are as near to being unsinkable as it is possible to make them. The 'presses' are being built with double bottoms and watertight compartments, the latter being numerous and closely placed. Ordinarily, if a ship is struck by a wave, the water will be pumped out, and a sufficient margin of safety will be maintained. In the case of the new 'Empress of Russia' and 'Empress of Japan,' should they be wrecked, the boats will still float, and the passengers will be safe. The first vessels built to fulfill these conditions."

It was also stated that the new steamships would be equipped with all the latest devices making for safety, such as wireless apparatus, and that they would be manned by the very best men who are available. The ships will be trained in the life saving and other drills, which are a feature of all Canadian steamships.

A tourist, in pricing tea in a Chinese store in Shanghai, was surprised to find that the tea was sold in pounds of a certain kind of tea for $1.00, but that it was bought in pounds the price would be five dollars. The tourist argued with the Chinese, but such an arrangement was ridiculous, but the proprietor of the store explained that the tea was sold in pounds, but the price was on the side. More buy, more risk. More risk, more can pay, he explained.

It is the duty of every one of you to make at least one person happy during the week, said the Sunday school teacher, after a sermon on the subject of charity.

I did, said Johnny promptly. That's nice, And what did you do?

I went to see my aunt and she's always happy when I go home again during the week, said the Sunday school teacher.

Appropos of the mention whether we should pray for weather changes, an amusing story is told in the West Country. A vector was approached by the churchwardens of a neighboring parish with a request that he would offer up prayers for the cessation of a long spell of rain. They were naturally asked why they did not pray for their own parish.

"To be sure, we do," he's too fond of rain," was the reply. "I don't know what the subject is that when a clergyman was asked to pray for rain he replied:

"He said—well, what the use of praying for rain whilst the wind is in the east?"

EASY MONEY FOR SUCCESSFUL FARMERS

The Central Alberta Development League wants to know the experience of Central Alberta farmers, the information to be used in exploiting the wonderful resources and the opportunities offered for various forms of agriculture in the district. Cash prizes will be awarded to the writers for the 15 best letters, as follows:

1st, $25; 2nd, $20; 3rd, $15;
4th, $10; 5th, $7.50; 6th and 7th,
$5; 8th and 9th, $4; 10th, 11th and 12th, $3; 13th, 14th and 15th, $2.

The conditions of the competition are:

Letters must be short and to the point; preferably not more than about 200 words, written on one side of the paper, and be in the secretary's hands on or before December 15th.

More considerations will be given to fact, than to literary style.

Be accurate; only such statements should be made as may bear investigation.

Tell where you came from, the resources you had on arrival and the success achieved; or your experience and success regarding any branch of farming, such as grain production; stock raising and dairying, singly or combined; horses, hogs, poultry and sheep raising; growing of grass and root crops; fruit and gardening generally; and how climatic conditions suit the form of activity described. The same writer may submit letters on different subjects.

The League also desires to hear from farmers' wives and daughters.

Letters should be sent to the Secretary, Central Alberta Development League, Edmonton.

The judging committee to award prizes consist of Chas. S. Hotchkiss chief publicity commissioner for Alberta; August Wolf, secretary Citizens' League, Edmonton; and F. T. Fisher, secretary Central Alberta Development League, Edmonton.

HOW TO KILL A TOWN

Buy from dollars as much and as often as possible.

Denounce your merchants because they make a profit on their goods.

Glory in the downfall of a man who has done much to build up your town.

Make your town out a bad place, and stab it every chance you get.

Refuse to unite in any scheme for the betterment of the material interests of the people.

Tell your merchants that you can buy goods a good deal cheaper in some other town and charge them with extortion.

If a stranger comes to your town tell him everything is overdone and predict a general crash in the near future.

Patronize outside papers to the exclusion of your own, and then denounce yours for not being as large and as cheap as the city papers.

If you are a merchant don't advertise in the home paper, but compel the editor to go elsewhere for advertisements and how like a sore head because he does so. Buy a rubber stamp and use it. It may save you a few dimes and make your stationery look as though you were doing business in a one-horse town.

If you are a farmer, curse the place where you trade as the meanest on earth. Talk this over to your neighbors and tell them the men are robbers and thieves. It will make your property less valuable, but you don't care.

THE PANAMA CANAL

Washington, Nov. 18.—Some time next summer or fall, no exact date being specified, a vessel will pass from the Atlantic to the Pacific across what is now the Isthmus of Panama, which consequently must disappear from the world's geography, and by the same human agency the Western Hemisphere will be divided into two continents. The vessel will not, be the Oregon nor any other famous ship, but will be one of the many small water-crafts in daily use by the canal builders; and probably the only passengers will be Col. Geo. W. Goethals and the staff of American engineers who for the past eight years have been carrying on the greatest engineering work the world has ever seen. It will be later than that, anywhere from six months to a year perhaps, before the formal opening of the waterway will take place, and a naval fleet headed by the famous old Oregon will pass through into the Western ocean, and the canal may be fairly said to be open to trade.

These facts are not of official record as yet; the date of January 1, 1913, still stands for the opening predicted by Col. Goethals. But that the opening will be anticipated to a great extent has been promised by the canal builders in unofficial statements, and now comes a clear intimation of their purpose to advance the opening date, in the annual report of the canal commission, just published.

CUT THIS OUT

One way to find the bushel contents of a bin of grain is to multiply the number of feet the bin is long by its width and height. Then multiply by 770, and drop the last three figures in the result.

For example, we will say a bin is 20 feet long by 10 feet wide by 6 feet deep. We would multiply 20 by 10, equals 200; 200 multiplied by 6 equals 1200; 1200 multiplied by 770 equals 924,000. From this drop the last three figures and our answer is 924 bushels.

The rule is our own. Imperial bushel. Many of the rules published nowadays are for the bushel used in the United States, but not authorized in Canada.

MISTAKEN THRIFT.

Don't Cut Down Table Expenses
For Less Important Things.

RIB ROAST BEEF SUBSTITUTE

Breakfast should be the most important meal of the day, and the writer by the way, is not a vegetarian.

Parsonage in nutrition does not necessarily imply parsimony of the pocketbook. The housekeeper who buys ready to serve food in small quantities frequently pays an excessive price for supplies which may at the same time have had their food values abstracted to such an extent that she is literally feeding her household on husks. There once fell under the writer's observation a would be thrifty hospital steward who fed the staff of the hospital on chicken heads, such thrift, by reducing the effectiveness of the working crew, defeated its own ends.

Whittling down the table expenses of a household for any purpose—the purchase of a new rug or piece of furniture—is unwarrantable unless it is accomplished by the substitution of less costly but equally nutritious and digestible food supplies. The substitution of bread instead of meat for rib roast is permissible; the substitution of corned beef and cabbage would be the nutritious luxury.

Breakfast is the most important meal for the growing child and the worker by the day. The breakfast should be inviting, wholesome and generous, says Dr. Van Vleet Manning.

The insufficient breakfast results in a craving which is responsible for the establishment of various unfortunate appetite-led peccol chewing and the picky and candy habit in the school-girl, cigarette smoking in the boy and alcohol in the man. An anaemic clerk of substantial weight concluded he had a tapeworm, as he felt such a gnawing in his stomach all day, and consulted a physician. Investigation disclosed that the man breakfasted at 8:40 on bread and coffee, commuted to the city, worked from 8 o'clock to 12:30, when he lunched hastily at a lunch counter, and worked the rest of the day on his nerve rather than on well nourished muscle, blood and brain.

The badly served breakfast does not irritate the capricious appetite of morose, but a well prepared meal would induce the moving away of enough good food in the form of an appetite, and would give the body the power to cool the head and clear the head of the warner.

Badly cooked meals result in a slow starvation of body and intellectual power.

Cultivate Neatness.
There are many girls who without help at all good looking always appear neat and smart.

They may only have a small dress all together, but with it are able to appear more attractive than girls who with twice their amount of money often look careworn or dowdy.

What is the secret of this? Surely it is due to the neat girl's taste. She always puts on her clothes with care and makes a point of her appearance before rest and tidy. She keeps her wardrobe orderly and has a place for everything; her ribbons, gloves, handkerchiefs, etc., are never handled into a drawer just to get them out of the way, but are carefully put in their proper places.

On the other hand, a girl who in an expensive dress will often spoil her appearance by the careless way in which she puts on her clothes, leading the daintiness that she might have had with a little more care.

It is a mother's duty to see that her children are taught from childhood to be careful and tidy; otherwise by the time they are grown up they will have become so accustomed to carelessness and untidiness that these will be second nature to them.

For the Bride's Supper.
At a recent wedding the supper table for the bride and her attendants was provided with handsome favors in

A FAVOR CANDY BOX.
The shape of button boxes. On the cover of each box was a hand painted picture of a bride and groom, and the bride and groom were the bride and groom.

In Stealing Corn.
When about to view left over corn is a man who is a member of the corn club. Only a few minutes will suffice. Always wear the corn first before cutting the corn, and in cutting do not cut close to the cob. Cut down through the middle of the kernels then scoop the corn. This will give you all the juice and pulp that cling to it, but not the hard end of the kernel.

The Three Glasses.
Take three glasses, one of which shall contain clear water, one soupy water, the other nothing. Blindfold the line of the party and lead him or her to the table on which the glasses are arranged. With the left forefinger she or he tries to dip into one of the glasses. Should it be the empty dish she will remain single; if into soupy water, she will marry a widower; if into clear water, her husband will be young and handsome.

"SONG OF THE SHIRT."

It Was the Most Popular Thing Tom Hood Ever Wrote.

During his last illness Tom Hood in an idle moment made an imaginative sketch of his own tombstone. He drew himself reclining at full length on a thick slab of stone, on the edge of which in large capitals he wrote, "The Song of the Shirt." This was the only inscription, and as he himself has said, Tom Hood needs no other.

How much he felt and added himself to the song by which he became known and loved by millions is shown by this and the following fact: "If I were anus these are the arms I should adopt," said he one day, showing a rough vignette to a friend. The sketch contained a very beautiful and pathetic idea. It represented a heart pierced by a needle threaded with silver tears, and beneath was the motto he had inscribed on the imaginary tombstone.

"The Song of the Shirt" appeared in the Christmas number of the fifth volume of Punch. It was unsigned, but every paper in the land quoted it, and it speedily became the talk of the day. Hood himself did not think it very remarkable, but his friend had said to him as he folded it for press: "Now mind, Hood, mark my words, this will tell wonderfully. It is one of the best things you ever did."

Mrs. Hood was right. The song was translated into French, German and Italian. It was printed on clean cut not handkerchiefs and parodied lines without number.

Fishing For Fish.

Many people there are who delight in just fishing for fish. Such a one was John Quincy Adams. The story was told by one of his clients, whose case was to be tried on a certain morning, that he could not get his counsel to leave his fishing boat except long enough to write a note to the judge which read: "Dear Judge: For the sake of old Irish Walton please continue my case until Friday. The sport is biting, and I can't leave." And the judge, having read the note, answered to the court: "Mr. Adams is detained on important business,"—Christian Herald.

Rude Awakening.

"You're looking mighty sour. What's the matter? Honey-moon over?" "I guess so."

"How'd that happen?" "Oh, we were drifting along down life's enchanted stream, as the poet tells about, and just as I was thinking I should like to drift on and with her forever she up and told me that she had got to have some money."—Boswell Post.

Mrs. Highspoon-John, I was never so angry in my life as this afternoon, when that lecturer of our club decided to insult me. Mr. Highspoon-Insulted me? Mrs. Highspoon-Yes he referred to the railroad of which you are president as a common carrier.—New York Times.

HOG WISDOM.

If your pigs have accounts or are not tidy get busy with the swill barrel and give it a thorough cleaning.

Stop to feed, not drink. It does not satisfy thirst. Plenty of clean, cool water is essential for successful hog raising.

It is common sense that a mature sow will produce larger and more perfect pigs than a very young one.

It is important that some grain be fed pigs intended for the market.

Treat the hard boar with kindness and also with considerable caution.

Even the hogs like a variety of feed and will do better if they can get it.

There is no animal that responds so quickly to good feed and treatment as the pig.

DAIRY COW OF QUALITY.

How a Great Milk and Butter Producer Was Reared and Fed.

By Professor C. LAMBERT, South Dakota State College.

When we come to analyze the causes which brought about such large milk and butter fat production from College Belle we find that they are principally, first, good milk and butter fat producing ancestors or good dairy stock in the pedigree; second, good rearing, third, good feed and care, especially during the time of freshening and the official test.

College Belle Wayne, although bred and owned by the South Dakota State College, owes her hereditary producing ability to the combined efforts of many. The special point that should be emphasized in this connection is that College Belle Wayne and her record are not accidents. This great cow stands as the product of careful selection and intelligent handling.

College Belle Wayne has always been well fed. During her growing years she was kept in good flesh, so much so that as a heifer she was frequently pronounced too fat and bulky to develop into a good dairy cow. She was fed upland wild hay and cornfodder for roughage and ground corn and oats as concentrates. During the summer she had blue grass pasture.

This fact together with liberal feeding, fresh air and exercise has caused her to develop into a very large cow of wonderful capacity. She weighed 1,600 pounds before she was six years old in last ordinary flesh.

The writer did not plan to give her an official test until one year from now, or when she would be seven years old. She already nearly had a twenty-eight pound seven day record.

College Belle Wayne, the Holstein cow here shown, has an official record as follows: Seven days, 24.5 pounds milk, 2.5 pounds fat, or 2.5 pounds butter; 10 days, 32.5 pounds milk, 1.5 pounds fat, or 1.5 pounds butter. Her dam was Leda, a large producer, and the dam of large producers. Her sire was Diego, a very young animal, all of his daughters are large producers.

College Belle Wayne was not prepared for her official test. She was just in ordinary good condition.

College Belle Wayne came through her freshening period in an exceptionally good condition. She ran with the herd until just a few days before freshening. At this time her udder became so large that she was uncomfortable in the stall. She was then transferred to a large stall having an exercise yard in connection. This stall is not entirely isolated from the rest of the herd, and she remained throughout the freshening and teeling period.

College Belle Wayne received all the roughage she would eat but was severely fed on grain during the first few days after freshening. Her ration consisted first of a little bran, oats and alfalfa. This was gradually increased until she received twenty-four pounds of grain daily in four meals. This consisted of a mixture of eight pounds of ground oats, eight pounds of wheat bran, four pounds of ground corn, four pounds of old process alfalfa and twelve pounds of hay. The roughage consisted of forty pounds of alfalfa, also given in four meals. Fresh clover hay, water and salt she had before her all the time. The clover hay gave her and green alfalfa was substituted. She bled on this, which caused her milk flow to be reduced considerably.

College Belle Wayne was milked every six hours at 6 in the morning, 12 at noon, 6 at night and 12 at midnight. At these hours she also received her feed. When feeding and milking time arrived this cow was up looking with an anxious eye for her feed.

Her highest record for one day was 121.7 pounds of milk.

College Belle Wayne received all the roughage she would eat but was severely fed on grain during the first few days after freshening. Her ration consisted first of a little bran, oats and alfalfa. This was gradually increased until she received twenty-four pounds of grain daily in four meals. This consisted of a mixture of eight pounds of ground oats, eight pounds of wheat bran, four pounds of ground corn, four pounds of old process alfalfa and twelve pounds of hay. The roughage consisted of forty pounds of alfalfa, also given in four meals. Fresh clover hay, water and salt she had before her all the time. The clover hay gave her and green alfalfa was substituted. She bled on this, which caused her milk flow to be reduced considerably.

College Belle Wayne was milked every six hours at 6 in the morning, 12 at noon, 6 at night and 12 at midnight. At these hours she also received her feed. When feeding and milking time arrived this cow was up looking with an anxious eye for her feed.

Her highest record for one day was 121.7 pounds of milk.

FAVORABLE OPPORTUNITY EXISTS

To Demonstrate The Adviability of Inaugurating The Consolidated Rural School System In This District

An excellent opportunity exists in Mirror district to give a try-out to the system of Consolidated Rural Schools, which has proven such a success in all districts where it has been established.

Some time ago, School Inspector Thibodeau addressed the Mirror Board of Trade, and during his remarks stated that it would only be a question of time when the Province of Alberta would adopt the system, and even now the scheme could be carried out wherever it would prove advantageous to a community.

There is at present within a seven mile radius of Mirror, two district schools, one of which is already closed and the other will be closed at Christmas for three months. The Lake Bend school, six miles east of here, has been closed for some time. This school had an attendance of from ten to fourteen scholars. The George school, situated six miles north of here, with an attendance of about the same number of scholars will be closed after Christmas.

This condition of affairs is not conducive to the educational uplift of any community, and it would be a very easy matter for the trustee boards to meet and make an effort to amalgamate the two country schools with that of Mirror. We are of the opinion that the undertaking would be a successful one, and providing it did prove a failure, the country schools could be re-opened and teaching resumed after the system had been given a thorough trial.

An interesting report has recently been issued by the Manitoba Department of Education dealing with Consolidated Rural Schools. Manitoba adopted the Consolidated Rural School idea in 1905, the school act being amended in that year to permit of their being formed. Virden was the first school organized along the new lines followed by Holland. At present 25 Consolidated Schools are in operation and the general verdict seems to be that they are very successful. The experience of Manitoba goes to show that from the point of view of comparative expense and efficiency the Consolidated Schools are a great improvement on the old system.

WORK ON ELEVATOR STARTED

Building on the new elevator at this point has commenced and a gang of men in charge of Foreman Bisson are busy getting the excavation ready for the concrete foundation.

A number of men are still at Trochu, putting the finishing touches to the elevator just built there, and a full complement of men will be at work here in a day or so.

Machinery for the elevator is on the way, and the Security Elevator Co. expect to have things in running order by Dec. 15th.

Personal Paragraphs

Mrs. Nannie Nelson, of Red Deer, is visiting with her sister, Mrs. Jno. Felton.

T. G. Cook, of Wainwright, was a visitor in Mirror the forepart of this week, on business in connection with the Imperial hotel.

Mrs. Palmer, of Guelph, Ont., visited with N. H. G. and Mrs. Ruthven on Wednesday.

Jan Earl leaves this week on a visit to his old home in the States.

BASHAW

A large assembly attended an urgent meeting, called in Bashaw last week, for the purpose of frustrating any attempt to boost the town other than by a fair review of same. The people of Bashaw and district are quite wide awake to their inheritance, and will be no party to any wild-cattling schemes.

The Buffalo Lake Times apparently didn't get enough hustle on to experience its baptism last week.

On Saturday the town was fairly besieged by residents from Manfred and the Flats; the court cases apparently proving very alluring. It seems to be a mania with some people to waste the time of the local J. P.'s, and undoubtedly there is an epidemic of running into needless and foolish litigation. It's an ill wind that won't blow somebody good (not mentioning lawyers); our local cafe man, Charlie Sing doing, a roaring trade, by the way.
